Neighbor-Bennett House, built in 1904

King County Landmark 1996 / National Register of Historic Places 2004

Among the older houses remaining in Fall City, the Neighbor-Bennett house is considered the most elegant for the quality of its detailing. It appears to have been built to specifications from a catalog published in Chicago. Use the link below to learn more.

The house is associated with two early Fall City pioneer families. It was built by Emerson Neighbor, who with his brother owned a general store on River Street and later played a major role in developing the town's telephone service. Emerson sold the house in 1912 to Frank Bennett, who was instrumental in the creation of a delivery and distribution system for large quantities of milk produced in the area. In the beginning this was by horse and wagon along a rough trail, with the 18-mile round trip requiring a relief team of horses.
