Early morning: Donna puts final touches on Hops Craze exhibit.

A hoppin' good time!

The weather behaved, the crowds were steady and a good time was had by all. Our centerpiece was a 1:12 model of the Fall City Hop Shed as it might have looked when it was in use on Davis Rutherford's farm. And those who wished could pick up a cardstock printout to construct a hand-sized hop shed model!

As usual, Donna Driver-Kummen put together an attractive display. Several people shared dried hops... lots of chances to smell the distinctive aroma! Dick and Kris Kirby loaned a wooden-slat hop picking basket from their antique collection. Janice Pankratz loaned a small hop basket and an interesting wreath containing dried hops.

We were able to share many historic photos from a variety of regional collections. Look for more in the 2018 Fall City Calendar, which will continue the Hops Craze theme!

Team work: thanks to all our Board members (Cindy Parks, Leanne Adcox, Donna Driver-Kummen, Anne Neilson, Paula Spence, Ruth Pickering) and to Gordie Gibler who helped transport tents and supplies, passerby Kevin Sackville who parked his bike and gave his help for putting up the tents, and Carl Neilson and Rob Spence for help with furnishing the space and hanging the exhibit. Special shout-out to David McAndrew and Tom Keene for the great model! And to Charlie Parks for moving the model at the end of the day.

A highlight of our day was snapping a Board Selfie with local celebrities Pete and Judy Nelson! Look for it on our Facebook page.

Support for our work from King County Heritage 4Culture is gratefully acknowledged.
