Falls City Masonic Hall, built in 1895

King County Landmark 1994 / National Register of Historic Places 2004

As the tallest and least altered of Fall City's buildings from the late 19th century, the Falls City Masonic Hall has been a visual community landmark for well over 100 years. It has been continuously used for its intended function as Masonic meeting hall and has also served as a venue for a wide variety of Snoqualmie Valley groups and events. See link below for more background.

The Falls City Masonic Lodge No. 66 received its charter in 1890 and held its first meeting in February that year in the hall above Taylor's store on River Street. In September 1894 the store burned, destroying all the property and records of the Lodge. While meeting briefly in the Fall City Odd Fellows Hall on River Street, the Lodge moved quickly to plan and construct the current building, with much of the labor donated. The first meeting in the new hall was held in January 1896.
